School spirit usually is the most defining aspect of any campus culture. It shows how much the students appreciate their schools. The students on the campus are very dedicated to attending all of the school games especially basketball and football. From coordination in terms of gear from banners, colored shirts and chants in support of their schoolmates who happen to be playing in the fields, the spirit of heritage is evident. Similarly, in other competitions from dance groups to arts and intercampus debates, a lot of support is seen from help in preparations before showing up for the competitions. Mostly, there are some who even go for body art in support of their school team players and participators in the school events.

I would say that our campus displays a lot of pride in traditions. In the campus, one would feel like you have relieved through decades of traditions. Through the activities that happen in the institution, one can easily read a lot of spirited people and sports enthusiasts. From the many sports choices in the varsity, there is no room left for rest. There is such a huge following with the campus basketball team and football team. From the players to the dancers, there is always a crowd cheering on during game nights.

Our college campus is tied in the football and basketball. For a long period of time, our college campus has been held together by the love of sports (football and basketball). We have a tradition of excellence in football and basketball. Regardless of whether you are playing intramurals for fun, cheering, or playing in one team, all students feel part of the excitement. All students, faculty and staff at our campus college have lots of chances all over the year to support the men's and the women's football and basketball.

Football and basketball matches attract large number of students from our campus who comes in solidarity with our teams to cheer them. The pride and love of our spirit is seen in the large number of students who turn up in the stadium to loudly and proudly cheer our team. These matches are view important to our college to the extent that students plan their social schedules in accordance to the games for the reason that school pride is tradition for them. Even students who are not in the college campus sports teams usually jump in on intramural sports so as to keep our school spirit abound.

We have a huge cheering squad whose sole responsibility is to encourage our players and increase student involvement and attendance at football competitions and school functions. The cheering squad instills excitement, spirit and pride at all intramurals and football and basketball competitions. Through the support of the cheering squad, who cheers loudly and proudly in all sports competitions, our teams have always been performing well in many competitions. All sports events are symbolized by our blue color that always fill the stadium. For a long period blue have been our color and during intramurals the whole college campus is filled with these colors as every student wears them.

In order to demonstrate that spirit in my campus activities, I have always been attending football and basketball competitions in our blue color. I am always part of lots of spectators who cheer our teams during competitions. I am also always involved in intramurals so as to keep the spirit of our school going on. I am also part of the group that is looking into other sports events that our school can venture in even though the pride and spirit of our college campus is tied in football and basketball.

Campus Activities

How would you describe your college campus Spirit?

I would say that our campus displays a lot of pride in traditions. In the campus, one would feel like you have relieved through decades of traditions. Through the activities that happen in the institution, one can easily read a lot of spirited people and sports enthusiasts. From the many sports choices in the varsity, there is no room left for rest. There is such a huge following with the campus basketball team and football team. From the players to the dancers, there is always a crowd cheering on during game nights.

There is a lot of dedication to bring out the best versions of art from dance, theater, sports, and talent promotion. There is a lot of colors seen on the sports gear that most of the athletes have as well as other fellow students. The sports gear is meant to communicate steadfastness, strength, knowledge, power, intelligence, value and the amount of success that the students achieve in the institution. There are also mascots that represent strength and thus mostly seen during games or other major entertainment events and competitions. The mascot represents the kind of spirit the institution has from resilience and success.

Another evident quality that is evident in the college is that there are spiritual chants from the institution anthem to that is a direct reflection of the spirit that is in the school. It promotes unity and oneness in the school. The soul it holds to the staff and students can be seen in how all harmonize to bring out their best voices. Similarly, the chants that are heard during game times are to show the spirit of resilience and support that is in the institution.

There is a lot of pride that shows how much the school is not only an institution but a second home to many students. This encourages joining students and other students scouting to go to acquire varsity education to join the institution and actively participate in school activities to continue the legacy.

How do you demonstrate that spirit in your campus activities?

School spirit usually is the most defining aspect of any campus culture. It shows how much the students appreciate their schools. The students on the campus are very dedicated to attending all of the school games especially basketball and football. From coordination in terms of gear from banners, colored shirts and chants in support of their schoolmates who happen to be playing in the fields, the spirit of heritage is evident. Similarly, in other competitions from dance groups to arts and intercampus debates, a lot of support is seen from help in preparations before showing up for the competitions. Mostly, there are some who even go for body art in support of their school team players and participators in the school events.

Some of the students have gone farther to sell out branded gear from common leisure gear to sports gear to only the school members to other citizens in the community and willing buyers as a measure to promote the college brand and promote more aspiring students to enroll into the college. It's also clear that the college has been active in community activities. From cleanups to charity fairs, the students have been very helpful in participation with even going as far as to appealing to online friends, families and willing donors to participate in charity events. Similarly, the school is highly invested in helping put the blood donation movement in a bid to raise a helping hand for the college and also the community. There is a pride in the school as the best institution one could ever be and similarly in the brand that the institution represents. The best thing is that in college, people grow into their own people as they progress in age. And for this institution, a lot of that spirit is full in the members.
